This book is a personal reflection and a pro-active how-to-guide that will allow readers to make their home safer, and can perhaps help minimize their loss in the event of a disaster. With the help of my family of fire fighters, I'll take you room by room, throughout the typical home, and provide ways of preventing fires, protecting and insuring belongings, and assisting the reader in the development of a plan of action in case of fire.

Readers will learn how to create an inventory and document their possessions; they will be prompted to think about a grab and go list in each room in the event they have to leave in a hurry; and, readers will walk away with a heightened awareness of what needs to be considered when looking throughout the home and consider protecting it, their loved ones and their belongings.

What the experts are saying about I Survived a House Fire...I Wish My Stuff Had:

"This near tragedy will help prevent others in the future. The lessons that Candace Quinn has laid out here are intended to save others the grief she has suffered, and will save lives if people heed her well documented advice. Sprinkler! Sprinkler! Sprinkler!"

-- Chief John Norman, Operations Division, FDNY

"Ms. Quinn's mix of personal experience with statistically correct data combines for an easy, informative read...one every homeowner or dweller should do. After 28 years as a fire chief, even I learned a couple things. This book is what everyone should know BEFORE it (fire) happens to you." -- Chief Eric Madison, Longmeadow (MA) Fire Department

Where to Meet the author: Book signings and sales planned for Massachusetts, Virginia, Missouri, Illinois during October/November, 2008. Author is available for other locations upon request.
